CHINESE TAKE ISLE HELD BY JAPS 2 DAYS

Recapture Futuo To Smash Enemy Threat to Big Seaport, Foochow.

CALL FOR U. S. ACTION

Free China Press Proposes Second Front, Intense Naval War on Japs.

(By Associated Press)

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's high command declared today that the Chinese had recaptured Futuo Island, just off the Fukien province coast from Foochow, smashing the newest Japanese threat to one of the biggest ports still in Chinese hands

The Japanese seized the island last Thursday but were diven off Saturday a Chinese communique announced It said fighting still was in progress northwest of Wenchow, in Chekiang province, the second of the two big remaining Chinese ports. The Japanese claimed yesterday that they had occupied Wenchow.

Fighting continued inland in Kiangsi province where the Chinese said the Japanese were rushing up reinforcements in an effort to save 30 000 of their troops hemmed in by the Chinese between the Kan and Fu rivers.

Free China's leading newspaper, Ta Kung Pao, called upon the United States to bring the war to a turning point this summer or autumn by opening a second front in Europe, starting a naval offensive against Japan, and turning the full power of her air force upon the Axis in Europe and Asia.

The newspaper said talk of a second front so far recalled a Chinese proverb: "There is plenty of noise on the staircase, but nobody comes down."

Chang Chiang-Au, China's communications minister announced that war supply deliveries to China are continuing over air lines to the outside world — largely through India — and said the capacity of these lines compares favorably with the flow of supplies China received over the now-closed Burma road.

Chinese circles said invading Japanese have rounded up approximately 5,000 000 Chinese laborers in occupied North China during the past five years and herded them off to Manchukuo and Japan to ease a labor shortage.

They said the Japanese now are trying to conscript 2,000 000 more through arrests and other pretexts in connivance with the puppet government at Nanking.

PRICE CONTROL SHOWDOWN NEAR

OPA Appropriation Goes To Senate With Emphatic Henderson Warning.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The price control appropriation went before the senate today with a warning by Leon Henderson that price fixing limitations sought by farm groups would cripple an important part of the anti-inflation program.

The limitations are contained in a $1 856.000 000 supplemental appropriations bill for war agencies The bill includes $120,000 000, tied down by a series of restrictive amendments to finance a year's operation of the office of price administration which Henderson directs.

Although the $120,000 000 OPA fund allowed by the appropriations committee is an increase of $45 000,000 above the amount previously voted by the house, it is $20,000,000 less than the smallest amount the price administrator had asked. He said the cut would limit OPA operations severely but that this problem could be met

Henderson's main criticism of the bill was directed against an appropriation committee amendment to prevent the OPA from fixing prices on any commodity made in whole or in part from a farm product unless the price reflected 110 per cent of parity.

In a statement issued Saturday night Henderson said the farm price restriction would force repeal of the general maximum price regulations because it would require studies on thousands of items of food, clothing and indus- (Continued on Page 5, Col. 8.)

WITH AUSTRALIAN FORCES AT THE EL ALAMEIN FRONT Egypt — (Delayed) — Britain's famed Australian desert fighters, supported by equally adept South African units today held tenaciously to their gains scored in a five-mile advance which pushed the Axis back west of El Alamein

I am writing this under a blazing noon-day sun from a forward observation post 1 000 yards ahead of our lines Beside me are officers spotting the enemy and advising our batteries several thousand yards behind through field telephones

After a hectic day Friday, during which we were attacked by Stuka dive-bombers several times and shelled solidly for 14 hours we had a comparatively quiet night.

The exception to that period of quiet occurred during a brief time when two dozen German panzers attempted to counter-attack our outposts

An alarm was sounded and a furious artillery and anti-tank barrage opened up Aussie infantry sprang into action with anti-tank guns and grenades Full of exuberance, the Aussies let loose one of their famed war whoops as soon as the enemy was sighted.

Fighting in pitch darkness, the Axis tanks were knocked out of action one after another

One Aussie private was knocked down by a tank, his nose broken and his face lacerated He leaped to his feet swearing profusely and heaved a grenade. But it didn't explode

Over the rattle of fire from small arms, his expletives could be heard as he ran after the panzer and hurled a second grenade. This one took effect. It blew off the tank track and the crew climbed out and surrendered.

Dawn broke as the Axis forces withdrew But at 7 a m nine (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

Gambling Declines In Ohio, Survey Reveals

Mansfield Among Cities Reporting No 'Organized Gambling'; Chief Says 'Community' Type Most Trouble.

War workers with "lettuce-lined" wallets are finding big time gambling in major Ohio cities on the decline although a state-wide survey by the Associated Press showed today that the perennial pastime was far from passe.

Mansfield was one of the communities reporting that no "organized gambling" was being carried on but the city did not lay any claim to a decline in back room poker games "numbers" operators bingo palaces and "hip pocket" horse book makers

It was apparent that the wagering gentry in most Ohio cities could still find takers for bets on winning horses at hay burner tracks how dice would read at the end of a crap table roll where the bouncing roulette wheel ball would come to rest and whether three plums would turn up on a slot machine.

It was also apparent according to the survey that concerted efforts were being made in some cities to slam shut the gambling lid and that activities of enforcement officers and civic and religious organizations were forcing organized gambling to operate under "wraps" if at all

Mansfield's Police Chief Thomas M Bell made no claim of any crusade against gambling but stated that a regular check was kept on it to prevent it from flourishing.

"There's no organized or wholesale gambling in the city," said Chief Bell. "Our biggest trouble here is community gambling such as bingo. We have had no orders to crack down on bingo but we intend to stop it from becoming promiscuous."

WIN POSITION FOR DRIVE ON CAUCASUS OIL

Register Deepest Penetration of Soviet Soil; Are Now 200 Miles From Volga.

REDS RESIST BITTERLY

Germans Succeed in Forcing Several Crossings of Vital Don River.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — The Russian army, giving ground but keeping its front unbroken, was hammered back today in the big bend of the Don river where the Germans' deepest drive into Soviet soil carried the Nazis within 200 miles of the Volga in a sweep toward the Caspian sea that would cut off the Caucasus.

The bloody and punishing German drive which has rolled 170 miles eastward in a week and placed the Nazi flag near Boguchar - the deepest penetration of Soviet soil yet made by the Germans.

A three-pronged offensive — with the northern prong resting on the battle-scarred outskirts of Voronezh—was being driven between the southern and central Russian armies in an attempt to separate them for an all-out smash at the Caucasus, the Russians reported.

The center prong of this offensive stabbed through Kantemirovka, about 145 miles south of Voronezh, and forced the Russians to withdraw to the region of Boguchar, slightly under 200 miles northwest of Stalingrad on the vital Russian artery, the Volga river

The Russians were giving up every foot of ground grudgingly, and taking a tremendous toll of German lives and machines, Russian dispatches said.

Boguchar is about 30 miles farther eastward than Rostov, the southern anchor of the Red army line and the previous high-water mark of Nazi penetration The Germans were pushed out of Rostov last year

The third prong of the Nazi drive pushed the Russians out of Lisichansk, about 35 miles south of Kantemirovka, and forced them to take up new positions, presum- (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1.)

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson today was investigating circumstances surrounding the finding of an 18-year-old girl in a hysterical condition back of her home east of the city early today, while officers searched for a 13-year-old girl reported missing from her home near Lucas.

The girl was found in the back yard by her father about 5 a. m., five hours after she left the house. Examination by a physician revealed only an arm bruise. The girl's statements were incoherent and the sheriff said he was unable to learn what had happened. The father told officers he found her lying on the ground beside a walk at the rear of the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dillon, Lucas, R. D. 1, reported to Sheriff Robinson that their daughter, Alice, 13, had been missing since about 8 p. m. Sunday.

She was described as having light hair and blue eyes and was wearing a patch over her nose which had been injured recently. She wore glasses and was wearing a purple flowered dress when she left home.

Sheriff Robinson investigated the possibility that the 18-year-old girl who was found back of her home may have been shocked into hysteria by an accoster who lay in wait for her as she left the house.

HOLLYWOOD—There are a few movieland experiences a mere male reporter must enjoy by proxy. Like fittings.

Week in, week out, glammer gals are having fittings. They devote two, three, four weeks to the ceremonial before each film starts. But what goes on? What is a "fitting?"

Coons

I dispatched my most glamorous spy to the home of Joan Crawford Madame PBX, or X for short, is back Her report which I have laboriously decoded, is before me now.

"MANEUVER D-48 (fittings) began at 3 and continued without cessation until 6 p. m. Your operative remained to the last stitch and pin Promptly at 3 Miss Crawford who has two names welcomed a group of hall-named people to wit Irene, designer; Suzanne, milliner; Backie, fitter Garbed for the job at hand, Miss C. did not welcome Durling, tailer, nor Josef, jeweler, until she had slipped on Suit 1.

"Item I Joan followed the actress's custom, for sake of hair-do and make-up, of stepping in and pulling up rather than dropping dresses overhead and pulling down. Her hair was loose She has a clever way of molding it with her hands to simulate what it will be for each outfit, each hat.

"Item II Joan during this fitting, gave her first performance of her role of wealthy Parisienne in 'Reunion' She dramatized herself in each costume. Certain outfits, to be worn in longer sequences, are to be made in duplicate and these too must be fitted Joan, having given her all, seemed bored with the repetition. Backie and Durling, black pincushions on their wrists, took in here, let out there.

"Item III. 'Those shoulders are too broad,' said Irene of one suit 'We must take out the pads.' "

"Those aren't pads," says broad-shouldered Joan "Those are me."

"Item IV. Joan with evening gowns usually wears her hair in long bob. The white lace boutfant gown she wears in the first sequence, however, will be topped by an upswept hair-do "It's so very French,' said Joan, 'it will save me some acting.'

IRENE has saved materials by using horsehair for the boutfant effect. 'It scratches' said Joan giggling.

"Item V. One of Suzanne's hats was wonderful Joan ah'ed over it. But the silly white pom-pom had to be changed to black. It's for a blackout sequence, and the pom-pom would steal the scene.

"Item VI Joan was heart-sick over Josef Joan gets ecstatic over jewels—but the mean old producers had decreed that after the pre-Nazi sequences, Joan couldn't have any, the idea being that the invaders would have copped her pearls. Joan got even. For her few bejeweled sequences she selected Josef's most brilliant pieces.

"Item VII. Joan in negligee ushered Irene, Suzanne, Backie, Durling Josef and your operative to door. She had just time, she said, for a quick shower before slipping on her store-boughten print for her date."

NEGRO DRAGGED FROM HOSPITAL ROOM, LYNCHED

Assault Suspect Hanged By Mob Following Attack on War Worker's Wife.

(By Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, Ark.—Dragged from the hospital where he lay critically wounded, a 25-year-old Negro who officers said answered the description of a man who tried to assault a defense plant worker's wife, was lynched by a group of 15 men early today.

The Negro, identified by Sheriff Monroe Watts as Willie Vinson, was hanged from a winch at a cotton-gin just outside the city at 12:40 a. m. after the party had driven him a mile from the hospital and then dragged him seven blocks through city streets.

The woman was dragged from her trailer-camp home early Sunday morning by a Negro who first clapped his hands across her mouth and throat as she lay sleeping with her 19-month-old son. Her husband was at work at the nearby Red River ordnance depot.

Threatening death if she made an outcry, the Negro pulled the woman toward a wooded section but she managed to struggle free.

Aroused by her screams, residents of the area trailed a fleeing figure to a cafe on highway 828. There one of them shot and critically wounded Vinson, after he had slugged one of the pursuers with a flashlight and had stood off two others with a butcher knife.

Sheriff Watts took the woman to view the Negro at the Texarkana hospital and later quoted her as saying that he resembled the man who attacked her.

Three automobiles were used by the men, one of which bore no license. Another of the vehicles had a Texas license, but the numerals had been smeared so that they could not be read.

Two other Negroes were held for questioning in the Boston, Tex., jail The victim of the attack had seen these men but had not been able to identify any of them positively, Sheriff Watts said.

The sheriff said he was investigating the lynching but had made no arrests and had no clues

"The nurses in the hospital didn't get a good look at them, it happened so quickly,' he said "Nobody seems to know who they were."

Vinson was employed as a dishwasher in the cafe

The attempted rape was the third in this community this month

VILLAGES HIT BY SPY SCARE

Report of 'Armed Japs' In Cleveland Area Causes Week-End Furore.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—A spy scare that threw three western Cleveland suburbs into furore over the week-end with an E. Phillips Oppenheim beginning was labeled as a dud by the Cleveland police department today and blamed on war nerves.

It seems that a landscape gardener in Middleburg Heights was approached by two men Saturday night and asked if rooms were available. The gardener, who described the men as "of the yellow race, either Chinese, Japanese or Filipinos," said no.

Somehow—and no one knows how—the report of the two "heavily armed Japs" spread through Middleburg and then to the Berea police department which in turn notified Olmstead Falls which then radiogrammed the Cleveland police department to be on the lookout for:

"Two heavily armed Japanese in a 1937 gray Buick coupe or sedan with Pennsylvania license plates, numerals unknown. Car loaded with explosives believed to have headed north or west out of Olmstead Falls."

The FBI, state highway police, and municipalities were notified. Guards were stationed at railroad trestles and power stations. Sixty Olmstead Falls citizens, armed with shotguns and rifles stood guard at every road approaching the village.

They stopped every car and interrogated each driver. Their vigil lasted until morning peeped its way into the town and dispersed the vigilantes. But no Japs showed up.

C'est la querie.

U. S. VILLAGE ADOPTS NAME OF TOWN DESTROYED BY GERMANS

LIDICE, Ill.—(INS)—This little Illinois community of 100 homes, formerly Stern Park Gardens, carried the torch of freedom today for its namesake village in Czechoslovakia which had been leveled and destroyed by Nazi vengeance.

The unincorporated federal housing project just outside of Joliet in the Illinois industrial area took its new name in a ceremony yesterday in which President Roosevelt, Wendell Willkie and other national figures hailed the community as a world shrine of freedom.

More than 10,000 persons gathered to hear speaker after speaker denounce Nazi barbarity which had destroyed the Czech village as partial revenge for the assassination of Reynhard "Hangman" Heydrich, Nazi governor of the Czechoslovak protectorate.

In a congratulatory message to the community, President Roosevelt said:

"On June 10th, the Nazi government announced the murder of a word—Lidice. That little village in Czechoslovakia not only was destroyed but its men were murdered.

"Its women and children were scattered, imprisoned and killed. The name of Lidice was to be erased from time, blotted out of history, forever forgotten . . .

"The town of Lidice (Ill.) now becomes an everlasting reminder to us that Nazi force could not destroy either the love of human freedom or the courage to maintain it."

Terming the destruction of the Czech village and its people the worst act of barbarity since the dark ages, Willkie, as the main speaker, called for the opening of a second front in Europe.

"We must carry the battle to the enemy—we must fight him on his own ground," Willkie declared.

Eduard Benes, president in exile of the Czech republic, sent a congratulatory message from London, expressing appreciation of "the magnificent gesture of the American people in founding a new Lidice near Chicago."

WOULD CALL IN IDLE FACTORY INVENTORIES

Plan Move to Prevent Them From Remaining Out of Normal Channels.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — War production board officials said today that inventories of iron and steel which are tied up in plants whose civilian production has been curtailed may be requisitioned for the war effort.

Some of the inventories can be assembled into items for civilians and this probably will be permitted, it was said. Others can not be used. To prevent them from remaining permanently out of the normal channels, officials are considering possible requisitioning and then allocating them to furnaces which are running short of scrap.

This was learned as a new salvage campaign to collect iron and steel scrap, waste fats and, in some communities, tin cans, got under way, and as Elliott E. Simpson, counsel of the house sub-committee investigating the rubber situation, charged that the scrap rubber collection, which ended at midnight Friday, would yield "gigantic profits" for four concerns. They were the one designated official agents for the government's rubber reserve corporation.

Simpson said the concerns were being granted $1 50 a ton for collecting the scrap which was turned in at filling stations, garages, and other designated places as well as a fee for sorting the material.

The four companies mentioned by Simpson in a formal statement were H. Meuhlstein and company, Inc.; A. Schulman, Inc.; Nat E. Berzen, Inc., and the Loewenthal company.

Simpson said the four companies had the "future of our country" in their hands because they held a "mortgage" on the rubber scrap.

The final tabulation of the rubber scrap collection has not yet been made public but it is expected to be in the neighborhood of 400,000 to 500,000 tons. That would be more than a year's supply for reclaim purposes if the collections are as good as normal deliveries.

Cleveland's CAP Units Stage 1st Group Maneuvers

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Cleveland Civil Air Patrol has passed its first all-squadron maneuvers with flying colors.

Approximately 200 members with 35 planes and 35 maintenance and personnel automobiles held exercises yesterday at the Vermilion emergency landing field, six miles southwest of Vermilion.

The planes arrived over the field in formations of threes, and peeled off to land "like veterans," according to Wing Commander George Stone of Columbus.

During bombing practice Observer Arthur R. Leuten and Pilot Earl M. Gibbs of Squadron 4 dropped one of their one-pound sacks of flour in the center of a 50-foot circle from a height of 50 feet.

The spot landing contest, in which pilots made precision landings in the bombing circle, resulted in a tie between Mrs. Arlene Davis of Squadron 1 and Jack Bassichis of Squadron 4, who hit identical spots.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 13, 1942.

Birth certificates are no longer required of defense workers—which makes another truth that is held to be "self evident."

It is argued for the withholding tax that the payer won't feel it—which follows an old idea that "you can't lose anything you never had."

Proverbs seem always designed for someone else, like: "Better it is to push a wheelbarrow you can afford than to ride in a car you can't pay for."

Next Year's Raw Materials

THIS COUNTRY has enough vital raw materials to last, in most cases, through 1942. The rub will come in 1943, when new sources or substitutes must be found. So says Louis B. Frechtling, who has been surveying the situation for the Foreign Policy association.

If the nation is not better provided, says Mr. Frechtling, it is not the government's fault, but our own. "As long as a substantial majority of the people were reluctant to take an active part in the war or to make adequate preparations for large-scale participation, it was as difficult to build up proper reserves of materials as to prepare our armed forces. While war raged in Europe and Asia, most economic activity in the United States continued to operate within the framework of the free enterprise system, which meant that consideration of the cost rather than national security determined where we obtained raw materials."

School Teachers Organizing Union

BEFORE reaching any conclusions as to the recent action of a group of Mansfield public school teachers to enlist their associates in an organization to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, it would seem reasonable that the public, as employers of the teachers, be more fully informed as to purposes of such action, advantages, if any, to the teachers, to the schools and to the public, and that some information also be given as to membership costs to teachers; whether the union would seek to exercise "bargaining rights," with "closed shop" provision in the matter of employment and dismissal of teachers, and whether the right to strike is considered a part of union operation of a public school system.

Thus far, it appears, neither the Mansfield board of education, upon which the public places responsibility for operation of schools, nor school officials, have been consulted in connection with this procedure, nor has the public been more fully informed than by a brief statement made by John Correll, teacher of social science at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, who has been chosen president of the organization and who said on May 26, "Our organization is devoted to improving our school standards and securing for our children educational opportunity compatible with the resources of our community. It also provides for teacher security and professional growth . . ."

It has been the thought of many people that all of these purposes have been well served in past and present, by willing public support of the public school system, capable handling by competent and conscientious members of the board of education, and under provisions of state law, with a pension system, assured tenure for competent teachers, and constant effort to place salaries at the highest point possible within the bounds of available revenues from taxes.

There have also been local and state teachers' organizations which have been assumed to be devoted to the same purposes outlined by Mr. Correll as intended by the proposed teachers' union, and it should at least be made clear to Mansfield taxpayers, who support the schools, and to teachers, who would be required to contribute regularly to union support, that these parties in interest, will benefit from trade union affiliation by public school teachers.

Freight-Carrying Gliders Foreseen

COL. EDWARD S. EVANS, an American pioneer in the modern art of air gliding, foresees a revolutionary form of aerial transportation. He thinks transport planes or "air locomotives" will tow through the air strings of transport gliders, very much as ground locomotives now pull freight trains on railroad tracks. He sees no reason why one locomotive-plane should not pull about 100 tons of freight, in three or four aerial cars, at a speed of 80 miles an hour.

Most people would assume that such aerial hauling would be expensive. But Col. Evans maintains that airplane freighters would be more economical than rail or truck shipping, because the trains would move so much faster. He suggests another interesting advantage. In transit, he says, "such craft could be cut loose by the pilot by means of a 'trigger-release' of the tow line. This would permit one or more gliders to land at any city to which freight in those particular gliders might be consigned. The remainder of the train would continue its flight even without slowing down."

Thus Tennyson's dream of "pilots of the purple twilight dropping down with costly bales" would be realized. And not only goods, but men, could be landed anywhere quickly by air transport. Indeed, this latter forecast is already coming true.

Find Food Value In Weeds

LAMB'S QUARTERS, pigweed, white goosefoot, fat-hen, frost-bite, meal weed, bacon weed, are all the same. Their fancy Latin name is chenopodium album. They are good to eat. Purslane is a pot weed, too, or one for salad. Milkweed can be cooked and served as a vegetable. So can the broad-leaved dock. Dr. George Washington Carver, noted scientist, has for years been pointing out the food values in common but neglected plants.

There was some historical discussion in Oregon recently about a kind of fern pie made and eaten with pleasure by the ancestors. It was probably made of the brake-fern, whose stems the English cook and eat like asparagus, saving the fronds for pot-herbs. This is the branched fern which the Scotch call "bracken."

These are not all the good weeds, but merely samples. Weeds are not all bad, apparently. What is contemptuously called a "weed" and thrown out, may be, in the garden, merely a useful plant out of place.

Here, however, is an important word of warning. Before the children run out-doors and begin to sample everything, before any unusual plants are set on the table, it would be well to lay them before an expert. The poisonous ones and the good ones sometimes look much alike.

WHO DO THEY THINK THEY'RE WAITING FOR?

Rationing Brings Amusing Quirks

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

If wartime rationing and scrap collecting are a bit overdone at present it probably is nothing worse than an inconvenience to Yankee civilians.

They doubtless are downright hardships to folk in other countries, where the pinch is more acute, but, with our larger resources we don't actually suffer here. Maybe we will later. Certain lines of business will, anyway, as they begin running shy on merchandise to keep 'em open. They'll face bankruptcy, in fact. That's why Price Fixer Leon Henderson wants 'em subsidized by the government—to prevent an economic crisis as they begin to pop.

That time hasn't come yet, though—not here in the United States.

Nevertheless, the situation is rather funny already.

Illustratively—

Several months ago it was proclaimed that, in the name of patriotism, all good Americans ought to save waste paper, which federal agents would come around periodically and collect, as an accumulation with which to fight the foe.

That Paper Drive.

Well, in my occupation I get a lot of newspapers and my wife and I saved the back numbers faithfully. For quite a while a federal representative called regularly and scooped 'em in, complimenting us for having such wads of 'em. Then he began visiting us less frequently and now he's stopped doing so at all. I've got a cellarful of the sheets, threatening to set my house on fire. My wife tries to get in touch with the proper functionary's headquarters by phone. The answer is, "Oh, gee! We've got nine times as much waste paper as we need, and more, too."

That was one kind of scrap collection. A still better advertised kind was rubber scrap collecting, accompanied by rationing to the point of near-starvation.

It was widely broadcast a few days ago that Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, leaving the White House after a call on President Roosevelt, glimpsed a rubber mat on the floor, and, yanking it up, confiscated it for wartime utility.

Upon analysis it develops that such mats consist of so small a proportion of already reclaimed rubber that they aren't worth reclaiming.

Nevertheless Harold's stunt made a splurge.

And gas!

That's an eastern shortage. Out west oil simply bubbles out of the ground, but transportation's lacking to bring it to our Atlantic seaboard. There appears to be no question that there's a genuine scarcity of it. "What of it?" Louis Block of New Orleans asks congress. "There's a perfectly satisfactory substitute."

Water and Gas.

It's a concoction consisting 75 per cent of water and only 25 per cent of gasoline, which isn't so bad, with a swish of alcohol. To prove his contention Louis fills up his tank with a sample of his mixture and runs his car with it. Congress is investigating that account also. Just how its inventor doctors the stuff hasn't been fully explained yet. It seems to work, though.

Then as to sugar rationing?

With American housewives allowances of it strictly limited, the statement's been made in congress that our southern warehouses are simply bulging with it.

The Office of Price Administration admits the story's truth, too, but says only those particular warehouses are overful—that the supply throughout the country as a whole is away below normal. All the same, it's disputed by congressional critics.

Washington's liable to be hard hit by the demand for scrap metal.

The capital has more out-of-doors statuary than any other city on earth. Every great man who ever lived in the United States has an image of himself at one street intersection or another, and so have a lot of foreign former notabilities.

The idea's to melt 'em all down for wartime raw material.

It'll make the town look mighty queer if they do it.

Timely Editorial

Billions for Farmers.

A substantial part of the money spent in the war program is finding its way out to the folks on the farm. It is reliably estimated that the farm income for 1942 will be close to $14,000,000,000. It would be a good time to get run-down buildings tidied up. The investment will pay big returns. First of all will be increased pride and satisfaction in living in improved surroundings. Community social life will be improved. And some of the money spent may be brought back by increased tourist trade. It is a well-established fact that vacationing city folks are sure to prefer touring through pleasing scenery, and a countryside in which snowy-white houses and bright red barns point the landscape, is bound to prove attractive.—Detroit News.

Serious Results From Slight Injuries.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TRAUMA is defined in the dictionary as "an injury or wound." Microtrauma is therefore a slight injury or a microscopic injury. It is surprising how many patients refer the beginning of their illness to an accident or an injury of some kind. This connection can seldom be substantiated but the possibility of repeated minute traumatisms as a cause of illness is a very suggestive one. It has been discussed in detail by Dr. Ernest T. Duschak of New York.

Prolonged weight-bearing has an influence on compression of the cartilages of the joints of the spine and of the legs. A study of the pressure within the knee joint with the subject standing and with heavier and heavier weights added around the shoulders shows that the increase in weight-bearing decreases the circulation of tissue fluid in the joints until finally it stops completely.

Possible Results.

Normally this goes on with everybody to a certain extent, but the stoppage of the circulation of tissue fluid in most of us is temporary, with no ensuing disorder of tissue nutrition.

The compression and relaxation of the cartilaginous disks between the spinal vertabrae that occurs in breathing and bodily motion also normally results in no disorder. But with any decrease in perfect nutritional health of these structures, any slight increase in traumatism may result in the beginning of arthritis or neuritis.

We discussed in an earlier article the commonest cause of sciatica, which is a protrusion of the center of one of the cartilaginous disks between the vertebrae. This protrusion occurs as a result of trauma, but the trauma is usually so slight that the patient doesn't remember when it occurred. It may indeed be one of these conditions in which repeated microscopic traumatisms cause the condition.

Program of Prevention.

As time goes on, old age usually brings an increase of weight to the body and also a decrease of nutrition to the tissues, particularly to the joints, and it is not surprising that at this time the chronic symptoms of arthritis begin to be seen.

According to Dr. Duschak, soldiers, factory workers, dentists, surgeons, policemen, salesmen, cooks and waiters are particularly liable to microtrauma. Prevention depends upon shortening and interrupting the continuous weight-bearing by intercalated motions, the use of exercise, massage, vibration, heat and often the correction of such deformities as pronated feet, knock knees, bowlegs, etc.

These things, of course, are easier to say than to do but the conception is a reasonable one and those whose occupations expose them to microtraumatism may well engage on a program of prevention.

Determining Military Promotions By Merit Far From Easy Problem

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Some of the criticism of British generalship—and of certain admirals in our own navy—is absolutely just. But it is a good deal simpler to criticise than to find the answer.

The statement that Gen. Rommel, were he in the British army, might by now have attained the rank of sergeant, is an argument that, if followed through to its logical conclusion, would lead to some interesting thoughts.

Certainly it is not true that in the United States Navy anyone not a graduate of Annapolis could never hope to be an admiral—nor even a captain. Few men promoted from the enlisted personnel have ever gotten beyond the grade of lieutenant commander—two grades below captain.

Naval officers will explain, when on the defensive, that usually the men are much older, when, for some demonstrated ability, things that they should get very much further up the ladder of promotion before retirement for age.

In the army it is much easier for a non-West Point man to get up, especially if he had a good education before entering the service. But most of these cases also will be found not to have resulted from promotions from the enlisted personnel. Usually these men went into the army as commissioned officers because of qualifications suited to the period of induction.

BUT the real problem comes right down to this—what is there about the German system which makes the development of a Rommel possible, and which makes such a development in either the British or U. S. army and navy almost unthinkable?

There is no doubt that there could be some form of liberalization of our promotion systems, and the British, which would result in a substantial improvement. But it is not half as easy as it sounds.

It is so easy to say that men should be promoted by merit rather than seniority. But HOW is that merit to be determined—and by whom? That's where the trouble comes in. The moment we abandon seniority in a democratic form of government, or a country recognizing the class system as unofficially and extra legally as Britain does, we open the door even wider to favortism than is alleged to have been the case in Britain.

It is well to remember that our own army and navy have not been free from political promotions. Each war we have engaged in, has brought forth political pressure for certain military appointments. In World War No. I there was tremendous political pressure for Leonard Wood as commander of the A. E. F.

As a matter of fact without a measure of political backing it is doubtful indeed whether General John J. Pershing would have been appointed in command in France in 1918, richly as he may have proved his ability, and fortunate as the country may have been in having him as its top general. No, this business of determining promotions is far from easy.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—All wars are a field day for the sloganeers—but this one is tops.

There are thousands of war production plants in the United States. The War Production Board has a production drive division. The sole purpose of this division is to stimulate maintenance of production schedules. An important phase of its work is promotion of slogan campaigns.

IN 313 major war plants, slogan contests already have been held. In many of them, cash or war bond prizes are offered for winning slogans. In the Cadillac factory in Michigan, 3,323 workers participated in the contest.

The Stromberg-Carlson plant at Rochester, N. Y., waged a battle for slogans under the inspiration of a corps of attractively-uniformed girls. More than 2,000 employes submitted slogans.

Some of the sloganeers are patently amateurish. But many produce rhythms and alliterations that help turn the wheels in their own plants. For example. "Hardinge's Hands Harass Hitler and Hirohito" may not mean a thing outside Elmira, N. Y., but it's a war cry for the employes of Hardinge Bros. there.

The worker at the Curtiss-Wright factory in Beaver, Pa., who contributed that "Speed 'Em for Freedom" knows all there is to know about putting zip into words that make work. So does the Westinghouse Electric employe at Canton, Ohio, who thought up that "T.N.T.—Today Not Tomorrow."

Add, too, the Waukegan, Ill., American Steel and Wire company worker who contributed, "Speed the wheels to beat the heels."

And the offer of the Globe-Union man at Milwaukee: "Production quotas must be beat to knock the Axis off its feet."

SOME of the puns that get into the slogans are something. From Du Pont's Joliet, Ill., factory comes: "If it's Nip and Tuck; make it the Nip that gets tuck." And the Donora (Pa.) Zinc Works posted up, "Let's Zinc the Hell Out of 'Em."

The favorite rhymes in an overall survey of the thousands of slogans are "destruction" and "production;" and "relaxes" and "Axis." Oddly enough, several have come through from scattered sections with "Democracy's (of Freedom's) existence depends on your assistance."

The Du Pont factory at Pompton Lakes, N. Y., made a bow to the U. S. Treasury with "A Defense Stamp a Day, Keeps the Axis Away." And the Arma corporation, Brooklyn, also did a little extra-curricular work in developing the time-saver slogan: "If it's talk—talk a walk." Arma's production slogan is equally direct: "Cook His Goose — Produce."

The WPB is pretty keen about its slogan campaign. Michael Strauss, director of the production drive, writes a personal letter to each of the winners. Labor-Management committees are given all kinds of advice and encouragement in promoting the campaigns.

The reason: the plants plastered with the words of the sloganers almost invariably are ahead of production schedules.

Movements In Battle For Egypt Become Fascinating Spectacle

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

THE BATTLE for Egypt patently has developed into a play for position and a race against time by both belligerents to bring up reinforcements and materiel, and the outcome of this conflict, which is a part of Hitler's win-the-war-this-year offensive, may easily depend on which side is the quicker with the reserves.

There is a fair amount of mystery regarding this extraordinary combat, which had been relatively quiet for 10 days because both armies were fagged out and their equipment needed repairs. However, the way things are going the fight seems likely to blow up in our faces in the near future. Certainly the present position is a package of dynamite.

If the fate of the Allied cause didn't depend so heavily on this battle, it would be fascinating to watch the contest of wits between General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the shrewd and capable Scotsman, and Field Marshal Rommel, one of the greatest tacticians of his day.

The Scot is maneuvering to trap Rommel against the Mediterranean coast and hold him there in a pocket while American and British bombers and British submarines try to cut the Axis supply lines. Rommel is trying to keep his line of retreat open and hang on to his position until fresh equipment arrives.

Rommel's armored right wing originally had rested some thirty-five miles almost due south in the desert, while his left wing lay on the coast. He kept swinging at Auchinleck with that fast-moving armored force, like a prize fighter chopping with his right, hoping to swing the Scotsman back and outflank him—that is, put Auchinleck in the same kind of sack that the latter now is holding open as he punches at Rommel.

But Auchinleck wasn't having any. He began to show a retaliatory strength which indicated that he was beginning to receive badly needed reinforcements, both in men and equipment. At the same time Rommel's striking power apparently deteriorated because of lack of supplies due to the over-extension of his lines of communication.

Thus we see Auchinleck become the aggressor in a cautious sort of way—just enough to keep the initiative, make things uncomfortable for Rommel and be ready to take advantage of any opening without actually precipitating a renewal of the battle for which the British weren't ready. Last week-end, for instance, the British pushed that right flank of Rommel's back still further but Rommel rebounded there and the British struck his left for a five-mile advance.

Everybody realized that Rommel hadn't lost his cunning and that he was still the dangerous foe who more than once had turned almost certain defeat into victory. Whether he or Auchinleck is ready for full scale resumption of the battle is not known.

The Worm Will Turn.

A reader asks the origin of that old saying with which we are all familiar, "The worm will turn."

What more expressive and descriptive, in allusion to a downtrodden or subservient person suddenly standing up for his rights than "The worm will turn?"

This language picture product of Shakespeare's genius for words. It is in part three of his play, "King Henry VI" that we find its source in this form: "The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on."

More Rain, More Rest

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE WAITED almost a week for our black bottom land to dry and had just planted three rows of cucumbers when a heavy rain drove us in. The rest of the field which will go into soybeans, for hay and cover, may wait until later without damage.

Our little cottage seemed overmuch crowded with doors and windows closed and as soon as the electric storm had passed, the children slipped into bathing suits and ran out into the dwindling shower, tossing a cake of soap back and forth to lather themselves, then slipping and splashing on the grassy lawn slope—shouting to the barking dog and cavorting with slim, gleaming brown bodies and exuberant spirits while the maples shook playful drippings down upon them.

My wife and I watched from the porch, awhile. Another cloud bank piled in the western sky. More rain was coming. We left the children enjoying themselves and slipped away in the car, taking along the old portable typewriter and some copy paper.

We drove to the top of the hill road, overlooking the home valley, and for two hours enjoyed ourselves with few words exchanged, she at the typewriter, I with pencil and pad. The new shower came and burst over us with dashing force. It pattered on the car top, beat in through every crack. The windshield blurred and the hills were lost in fog. We watched the sheets of rain move along the valley. When the sun came out, we drove slowly toward home by the valley road. Honey Creek was rising. The bridge we had crossed was now level with the rolling current and water was coming over the road. We hesitated to cross there and drove along the other side of the valley, going upstream. A neighbor's wheat shocks were washed into the road. His binder stood in the center of an amazing puddle that reached over the cutterbar. The water was going off in a hurry, not soaking in as much previous rain did. It was hard to recognize our friendly, clean, meandering creek in the turbid, twisting, gouging, foaming torrent that tumbled toward the Clearfork.

NAZIS BATTER WAY TO VITAL POINT ON RIVER

Reach Important Bend in Drive For Caucasus Oil; Reds Still Resist Bitterly.

ably on the eastern banks of the Donets river.

(A Vichy radio report said the Germans had occupied Pokrovsk, about 40 miles northwest of Rostov, in a determined drive on Rostov.)

In the bitter fighting near Boguchar, a large group of German troops managed to penetrate the Russian defenses for a considerable depth, but today's mid-day Soviet communique said the group had been "wiped out." The war bulletin described the fighting as a "heavy defensive engagement against advancing enemy forces."

The Germans have a long, bloody course to pursue before they can hope to cut off the Russians' land approaches to the Caucasus from the north, the Russians said. But the advance to Boguchar put them only 435 miles from Astrakahn, at the mouth of the Volga on the Caspian sea. They already have cut the main Moscow-Rostov railway at Rossosh and are camped on the Don river at several places.

At Voronezh, the northern anchor of the 200-mile front, the Russians were reported holding doggedly and even counterattacking in some sectors. Some points changed hands several times, a Russian communique said.

The army newspaper Red Star warned the Russian people that "in some places the situation is critical."

The Moscow News reiterated the Russian appeal for a second front and expressed bewilderment such a front had not been established in the time since the British-Russian mutual assistance treaty was signed May 26.

"Hitler's back is his weakest spot—he should be struck there with all the might at our disposal," the paper said.

Major Gen. Mikhail Gromov, who flew from Moscow to California five years ago, said in an interview, "We will be happy to learn of the start of major offensive operations in the air that our American and British friends are to conduct."

Canadians Stage Invasion Maneuvers

By RUSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press War Correspondent)

WITH A CANADIAN ATTACK FORCE AT A BRITISH PORT —The greatest sea-borne, air-supported attack maneuvers ever staged under the British flag—all clearly labelled invasion—have been completed by Canadian forces in England.

As correspondent with the Canadians I saw the training in every detail.

It was the most impressive and encouraging evidence of offensive intention and power since I came to Britain almost two years ago.

It was a Canadian show for a hand-picked audience but for the first time lieutenants and sergeants from the United States expeditionary force in Northern Ireland went with the Dominion fighters in their weeks of practice assaults on the English coast.

All was in deep secrecy with only 30 or 40 top commanders watching. Among them were Lord Louis Mountbatten, Britain's commando chief, and Lieut. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army in England.

Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the U. S. armed forces in the European theater, visited the practice area once to talk to senior United States army and navy officers there as observers.

A huge armada of the British navy put to sea several times with the Canadian force, staging in staggering dimensions dress rehearsals of the kind of work it would have to do in an invasion of the Lowlands, France or Norway.

Report Soviet Troops Encircled

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless) — (INS) — A special announcement issued today from Hitler's headquarters, "southwest of Rzhev on the Moscow front," asserted that several Soviet rifle divisions and cavalry divisions as well as a tank brigade, had been encircled and were now "under annihilation."

The communique said 30,000 Russians had been taken prisoner.

Nazis Set Up New Repressive Code

VICHY—(INS)—Apparently fearing widespread demonstrations tomorrow when defeated France celebrates Bastille day, German occupational authorities today announced the most stringent repressive measures in history against the families and relatives of terrorist suspects.

The new regulations were promulgated simultaneously with announcement that one person was killed and another wounded in a gun battle which occurred at Houdin in the Pas de Calais district on the channel coast when German and French police discovered and seized a sizeable arms cache.

The dead man was identified as a "terrorist" presumably assigned to guard the arms dump while the wounded man was a passerby.

COLUMBUS—(INS)— A total of 152,247 18 to 19 year old youths signed up in Ohio's fifth registration on June 30, Colonel Chester W. Goble, state selective service director, announced today.

The figure was far short of the 165,000 to 170,000 anticipated.

juries in the same crash. They were Arthur Steward, 19, Crestline, R. D. 1, who received a dislocated elbow, and Richard Glower, 18, of Tiro, treated for head cuts.

Highway patrolmen said Day was driving with his arm resting on the door ledge when his car was sideswiped by one operated by Steward. Glower was riding with Day.

Steward was arrested by state patrolmen on a charge of unsafe operation. He was ordered to appear in Crestline mayor's court next Saturday.

Arthur Cambridge, 37, of Detroit, Mich., suffered chest injuries Sunday night when his tractor, pulling a load of steel, overturned along Route 250 six miles east of Ashland. Cambridge told officers he was attempting to avoid an oncoming car when the tractor went into a ditch and overturned. He is in Samaritan hospital, Ashland.

F. B. Swanger, 59, of Mifflin, failed in an attempt to flag an Erie passenger train at a crossing on Route 603 west of Ashland at 2 a. m. Sunday and his stalled car was demolished. Swanger said the car skidded off the end of the crossing planks.

Cited by Mansfield police for traffic violations were Carl W. Lesher, Dayton, charged with speeding on Lexington avenue; Ralph Wierick, Bellville, R. D 1, for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol; and Mrs. Mary F. Pardon, 63, Grandview avenue, accused of failing to yield the right-of-way.

Police said Mrs. Pardon drove her car out of a parking space on West Fourth street near Walnut street into the path of a car operated by R. J. Ackinclose, 174 East Fourth street, colliding with his car. She will be arraigned in municipal court at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Lesher posted $16 30 bond and waived appearance, while Wierick was fined $75 and costs and his driving license was suspended for one year in municipal court today. He entered a plea of guilty.

Arrested early today by state patrolmen on U. S. route 42, Roland E. Zimmerman, 20, of Ashland, will be arraigned in Mansfield municipal court Wednesday afternoon.

Cited by patrolmen early today for reckless operation, Dwight E Altman, 32, was fined $10 and costs today by Mayor R. G. Booher of Mt. Gilead.

Also fined $10 and costs by Mayor Booher was Dorsey Hart, 50, of 497 West Fourth street. He was arrested by patrolmen on a speeding charge.

Others cited by state patrolmen for speeding were Otto C. Schlientz, of Marion; Harry R. Probst, 50, Freedom, Pa; Harry E. Probst, 19, Jamestown, Pa., and Robert C. Mennell, 23, Beaver Falls, Pa. The latter three were motorcyclists and were arrested on U. S. Route 30 near Mifflin. They posted $16 30 bond each and waived appearance in court.

The three Ohio fatalities were Lon Bets, 19, Ruth Kline, 24, and Robert Dollison, 29, a soldier home on furlough. They were fatally injured when their car and a cattle truck sideswiped near Barnesville.

The dispatch said 310 persons were saved from the Avila Star.

The German agency dispatch from Lisbon said the Avila Star was torpedoed about 180 miles off the Azores and that the Portuguese warships responded to her SOS.

Among the survivors were the crew members from another torpedoed vessel. They had been previously rescued by the Avila Star, the dispatch said.

New Guinea 'Penthouse' For U. S. Soldiers

Taking their ease around their new home are these U. S. troops stationed in New Guinea. The "penthouse," a large grass-covered native hut, is built on wooden piles. This type of habitation is said to be a favorite with most of the soldiers who live in them. It looks o.k. to us—as long as you don't walk in your sleep.

OHIO GAMBLING SHOWS DECLINE

Mansfield Among Cities Which Say 'Organized Gambling' Not Evident.

ciation's disclosure that gambling flourished in a score of establishments there, about half of them near major war plants, sent the city's anti-vice squad out with moving vans. About 200 persons were removed from two places and gambling charges were lodged against one person from each establishment.

Youngstown, another city in northeastern Ohio's war-busy "little Ruhr," has been quiet since a grand jury reported a break down of law enforcement and asked Gov. John W. Bricker to intervene.

Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert designated Simon Leis of Cincinnati, to investigate a special grand jury investigation. The Youngstown Ministerial association and the Youngstown Council for Civic Action have pledged to support the clean-up.

The Stark county Federation of Men's Bible classes and the county Ministerial association recently complained to Bricker that a keno game and about 100 slot machines were operated at Myers Lake, near Canton. The governor said local authorities should handle the situation.

At Cleveland, Detective Sergt. John Fitzgerald said no slots or pinball machines had been operated in the city since Jan. 1 and that the 25-man vice squad was "doing the best job it could in daily combat against gambling."

Toledo police have cracked down on handbooks and dice games but numbers operators were reported active. The city grosses $100,000 annually in fines from numbers agents.

Slot machines vanished from Columbus about the time a grand jury last fall indicted 70 persons during a gambling investigation. Mayor Floyd F. Green said recently he knew of no gambling in the city but the Columbus Dispatch reported horserooms, numbers houses and a few slots in operation.

Cincinnati police said gambling laws were enforced at all times, but conceded that "wide open" Kentucky towns across the Ohio river may attract gamblers who otherwise might operate in Cincinnati. Dayton and Montgomery county officials reported no organized gambling.

East Liverpool and Springfield "numbers" operators were reported busy but other gaming virtually absent. Alliance, Chillicothe, Newark, Buckeye Lake, Portsmouth, Van Wert, Logan and Hocking counties were listed in the "pure" categories. Clinton county reports indicated some slot machines in operation.

ENGINEER KILLED

COLUMBUS — Henry B. Seaman, 59, who came here five years ago from Athens, was killed yesterday at the Ohio institution for feeble minded, where he was assistant chief engineer. An iron bar with which he was attempting to turn an engine broke loose and struck him in the neck and jaw.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR DEAD

meat dealers in quantities of not less than one pound. They will be paid up to five cents a pound for the waste fats.

The fats, which may include pan drippings from bacon, roast ham, beef, steaks, chops, veal, and either lard or vegetable shortening, should be screened and placed in clean cans with lids or tops that will prevent spilling.

Comparatively fresh fats are preferred as age reduces the glycerine content of the drippings, campaign officials said.

No time limit has been set on the fat collection campaign, but great quantities of it are needed immediately and housewives were urged to turn it in as soon as they collect a pound or more. It was estimated that the average family can save a pound or two a month.

Sounding the keynote of the national salvage campaign, Donald M. Nelson, head of the war production board, asserted today that "The immensity of the task we face makes it absolutely necessary to step up the tempo of our national salvage program. Our war production is limited only by the supply of raw materials, and scrap is an important part of the raw material supply.

"This makes it clear that the only way we can meet the requirements of war production is to collect every last bit of scrap from every farm and home, and from every commercial enterprise and industry in the country."

U. S. Army Games Get Underway Today In North, South Carolina.

WADESBORO, N. C. — (AP)— The U. S. Army's first wartime maneuvers got underway in the Carolinas today with an admonition by the diretor that "this may be the last dress rehearsal before the shooting for keeps starts for many of you.

"No part of warfare will be omitted in the activity which will include two new phases—air ground and the final clean-up action," said Maneuver Director Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley.

AUSSIES DRIVE GERMANS BACK TOWARD LIBYA

American Reporter Describes How Tough Soldiers Repulsed Nazis.

Stuka dive-bombers dropped 18 heavy bombs on our position. I was amazed when I was unable to see a single casualty.

After the Stukas had left, an Australian correspondent, a British captain and I started for an observation post in a camouflaged station wagon. German observers spotted us within a few seconds and we were heavily shelled. Fourteen shells burst over our zigzagging car.

Finally we reached the cover of a small hill and the Tommy driver exclaimed: "Never touched us, sir. Bloody awful shooting."

The German observers obviously had mistaken our vehicle for that of a staff officer and directed a heavy barrage of 88's which burst in the air over us. These shells explode 50 to 60 feet above the ground and splatter the surrounding terrain with shell fragments similar to shrapnel.

The Germans had just laid a screen with smoke shells through which their panzers were emerging from the south. All around the tanks the fire of our 25-pound guns was directed by the captain beside me.

From my forward grandstand seat I looked through field glasses and saw the panzers waver under the merciless fire, then turn tail and retreat. One tank was left remaining on the field a half mile south but I did not feel at the moment like going out to inspect the damage.

Many additional prisoners were brought in today, probably there were about 1,000.

Our casualties have been almost unbelievably light.

(Here the writer had to interrupt this dispatch to flop down under cover as nine Stukas dived out of the sun and strafed and bombed the road behind his position.)

The prisoners taken in this sector include several high ranking Italian officers, a half a dozen of whom I saw being taken to the rear this morning.

British Repulse Axis In Egypt

CAIRO — (AP) — British forces have repulsed all attempts of Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis armies to drive them from positions which they occupied 10 miles west of El Alamein over the weekend, British headquarters announced today.

At the same time British shock troops and artillery were reported harassing the enemy on the southern end of the front, just above the Qattara depression, while in the center Axis forces were kept on the defensive by continued shelling.

Heavy dust storms interfered with aerial operations yesterday, but Allied fighters made protective sweeps over the lines and fighter bombers strafed enemy positions, a communique said.

Today's communique gave little detail of the fighting west of El Alamein, merely reporting:

"In the northern sector yesterday, our troops drove off an attack by the enemy on the northwestern area of positions occupied during our recent advance."

It appeared, however, that the hard-bitten Australian troops, whose arrival in the battle zone has given the British eighth army a fresh lift, were tightening their grip on newly-won positions along the coast near Tel El Eisa.

U. S. Loses 1st Plane In Middle East

CAIRO — (Delayed) — (AP) —The United States Air corps has suffered its first loss of a Liberator (Consolidated bomber) in battle in the middle east arena.

The giant planes had been bombing Axis targets for several weeks with immunity when a formation of the bombers en route to attack Mediterranean shipping was intercepted by Messerschmitt fighters.

Two of the Messerschmitts were shot down—but one Liberator did not return.

RAF Pounds Nazi U-Boat Centers

LONDON —(AP)— The new potency of Britain's air campaign to drive the U-boat from the seas by smashing Germany's replacements before she can get them into the water is the story behind the RAF's sensational daylight raid on Danzig Saturday.

That neither daylight, distance nor foul weather deterred squadrons of British bombers from sweeping low over Germany on a 1,750-mile roundtrip in daylight showed the Nazis now are exposed to mighty air assaults anywhere and any time.

The attack cost but three planes and unofficial indications that this was less than five per cent of the attacking force meant that at least 60 bombers made it.

On this longest and riskiest daylight operation by the RAF so far, the British dumped heavy bombs on Danzig's submarine yards in the bright light of the northern evening.

PRICE CONTROL SHOWDOWN NEAR

trial products before ceilings could be set.

Senator Wagner, (D., N. Y.) asserted in a broadcast last night that the appropriation for Henderson's office was the most important issue on the home front.

"Every grasping landlord, every speculator in war materials and consumers' goods, every producer reaching out for undue profits at the nation's expense is today ganging up on the OPA," Wagner said.

He agreed with the price administrator in condemning another amendment which would prohibit the use of subsidies to hold down the cost of living.

Henderson declared that a third change, requiring senate confirmation of appointments of all OPA employes paid $4,500 a year or more, would inject politics into price control administration.

Another issue was the 2½ cents a gallon increase in gasoline prices in the 17 rationed states.

The appropriations committee wrote into the measure a provision which in effect would deny the OPA funds to enforce this price increase in such states as Georgia, which receives gasoline by pipe line and where no additional transportation costs have resulted from the cessation of Ocean tanker service.

If the senate accepts the appropriations committee changes, the bill will go back to the house for action.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Guzik, who investigated the shooting, said Glass had been on an all-night celebration after being paid Saturday. Upon his return home Sunday morning he quarreled with Mrs. Glass and threatened her.

Guzik said Mrs. Glass' statement revealed she fired two bullets at her husband while he slept.

CHAPTER XXX

It was Asa Kenyon speaking. He had entered the room unnoticed by the three women lost in the clash of reason and right against selfishness and fear. He stood by the door. A steady light burned in his eyes that no longer shifted.

"S-s-so it's you!" Cora stuttered. Could she believe her eyes, her ears? This rag of a man, this puppet of her will and whim was baring his teeth. He was setting himself against her. Fool! She'd have to shut him up, to stop him. "Get out of here!" she shouted. "Get out before I—before I—"

Asa Kenyon came forward, slowly; he seemed to increase in stature with every step.

"Before you—what?" he asked. The familiar quaver was gone from his voice. "It's no use, Cora. I'm through. I'm through being cuffed and kicked and driven. I'm through sitting on the river bank watching the days drift by while you eat away my life, your life, the life of our daughter with your stupid envy, your hate, your malice. I turned out to be a pretty poor club for what you thought you'd take when you married me, didn't I Cora?

"I failed you. You found it took more than a name to get you where you wanted to go. You got a Kenyon, but not your kind of Kenyon. A weak, sapless sprout of a sturdy old tree. So you bent me over. You broke me. But somebody came along and picked me up. Dick Kenyon. He's giving me a place in one of his plants in Chicago. I'm taking it."

Cora went toward her husband with outstretched arms. "Asa dear, you mean we're moving to the city, to Chicago? We're being taken up by the rich Dick Kenyon?"

Asa Kenyon stepped aside so that Cora's hands were clutching at empty air.

"I'm moving to Chicago," he said. "You're staying here, with Elsa. I'm going to a small job with small pay. I'll be living in a workman's quarters provided by the plant, for men only. I'll send you what I can; it'll be enough to put a roof over your head and feed you, provide a few necessary clothes. Nothing fancy. What fancy things you want you'll have to earn yourself—you and Elsa. That's the best I can do, for the present.

"Asa dear," Cora said, in tearful supplication. "You wouldn't desert us, your wife, your darling child. You wouldn't leave us in this dirty little hole of a town to be pointed at, people laughing at us, treating us like dirt, Asa your wife, your child!"

"I'm leaving tomorrow, on the noon train." The ring in Asa Kenyon's voice was new and strange. "The job is open now. It won't wait for me. I'm pretty well along in years to try a comeback, but no man yet ever lost by trying. This is the way it's got to be. This is the way it IS."

Kay said, "Mother, have you cousin Richard Kenyon's address?"

"Why yes, daughter. He left his card. It's in my purse."

"Good." Kay moved toward the telephone. "Get it for me, will you darling? We'll send him a night letter. We'll tell him we accept his offer."

Elsa came in while Kay was at the telephone checking the message to cousin Richard Kenyon. Tally Holmes was with Elsa. Kay was silent at the time. They did not notice her, but went on with whatever plot it was they were hatching.

Elsa said, "I know he'll be here. I heard Aunt Ellen tell him not to mind how late it was, she'd wait for him. We can be trying over those new songs in this room so we can't possibly help seeing him drive up. The minute he stops we'll dash out and rush him off his feet. We'll act as though of course we take it for granted he's come to see us. Then you hang on to him Tally. Make him take you home. Ask him, if you have to . . . tell him you're scared to go alone . . . tell him anything. Only hold on."

"He'll get away from me tonight over my prostrate body," Tally promised.

"I can't see why you're so keen about Gary Fowler," Elsa went on. "What if he is the big, strong male type women go for? He's poor as punk. Not a dime except what he earns. A junior engineer. Pin money and hardly that for you, darling."

"He won't always be poor," Tally said. "He has a big future. The manager at the mill said so himself. I heard him tell father. Father owns one of the largest blocks of stock in the company. With me behind him, Gary can go any place he wants, straight to the top. Besides, I happen to have gone off the deep end for him. I don't know why any more than you know why you go for Ronnie Farnsworth no matter how crude he is about brushing you off. We might as well admit the truth, pet. We're a couple of spoiled brats who would rather lose their pride than lose their man."

Kay said into the 'phone, "Correct. Thank you." Then she placed the receiver on the hook and turned to face the astounded conspirators. "Good evening, ladies," she said. "I seem to be interrupting a very interesting conversation. I've been here in plain sight all the while. You really should be more careful."

"Kay!" the two chorused, drawing together for mutual protection against the common enemy.

"In person," Kay said. "I know how deliriously happy you are to see me. And please don't allow me to interfere with your pretty plans."

Elsa said, icily, "What are you doing here?"

"Who, me?" Kay laughed mirthlessly. "I live here. I'm that person who thwarts your fondest hopes. If you'll excuse me now — you will excuse me won't you? — You'll be able to bear my leaving you."

Tally was unable to conceal her chagrin. "You would come back," she said. "It was too much to expect you'd clear out . . . that you'd stay cleared out . . . for a while at least . . . long enough for—"

"For you to get your man? But Tally, haven't you heard? Competition is the life of man-hunting. Nothing makes for an exciting man-hunt like a lively rival." Kay was surprised to find that venom, not irony, flavored her words. For some time she had felt an active dislike for Tally. Now she knew, she came near to hating her.

"You didn't by chance bring Ronnie Farnsworth with you? It would be too cruel, leaving him rattling around in New York, after helping him bum up the town. Poor Ronnie!"

"No. I didn't bring Ron with me. On the contrary, Ron brought me back with him. We came by plane. Stunning flight."

Elsa's face was grey, splotched with red wrath. "You dare show your face here after what you've done? You and Ronnie . . . in New York . . . flying around the country alone with a man . . . disgracing your family."

"Oh, but we weren't alone." Kay's calm was infuriating. "It was a cabin plane. Let me see there were one . . . two . . . yes there were six other passengers, not counting the pilots and the stewardess. Good night now. Pleasant landings."

Kay awoke with a song in her heart.

She was in love. She loved Gary Fowler. And — marvel of marvels — Gary loved her. She had come home to . . . paradise.

They knew it last night, this miracle of love, the moment they met, on the worn path, in the moonlight. Kay had stepped into the garden to catch again the homely scent—see the tangle of old-fashioned flowers, the pasture beyond the lilacs. Gary drove up in his funny old car with the trick engine. Kay called to him, joyously.

He was out of the car, down the path in quick, long strides. She went straight into his arms.

"Gary!" she said, clinging to him. "Gary!"

His lips were against her hair. "I love you, Kay," he said.

She lifted her lips. "I love you, Gary," she said, "now and for always."

The miracle of love had happened as simply as that.

* * *

Afterward, for a while in the garden, time stood still while the stars swung like festive lanterns in an ageless sapphire sky.

"You'll marry me?" Gary asked at last. He lifted Kay's face so that the moon would let him read her answer.

"Yes. I'll marry you. I want to be your wife, eternally." The moment was almost unbearably sweet; so drenched with happiness that it was close to pain.

Gary's kiss was reverent.

"My wife," he whispered. "God's in His heaven!"

For a long time they sat in the garden making plans, dreaming dreams as lovers do.

"Gary," Kay said, wistfully, "would you mind if I went on with my work at National Candy, for a little while, long enough for me to prove to myself that getting on isn't just an accident, that I can take my place in this modern world in which women, often, must do a man's job for the survival of themselves and those dependent upon them? National telephoned me just before you came. They want me to come back at the earliest possible moment. If you're coming to New York—we'd be together Gary."

Gary said, drawing her closer in his arms, "I want you now, tonight, but . . . it's for you to say when. Maybe a bit of courtship would be a happy prelude to marriage. I'll be at the home plant for some time. You could bring your mother on to New York as soon as this business of the Kenyon house is settled. I'll be there to see the two of you don't get lost in the subway and starve to death trying to find an exit."

"I was thinking . . . Uncle Asa . . . Aunt Cora . . . Elsa . . . what will they do. What can they do?"

"Three adults, sound in mind and body? Give them a chance to find out what they can do. They may surprise you. Their kind often does, when it's a case of tread water or drown. Kay, we'll not have a lot of money. We'll have enough for comfort, a few of the luxuries maybe. But out there in the future, over the far horizon, who can tell what will happen?"

Kay said, rubbing her nose against a tweed shoulder. "We don't need a lot of money. We're rich. We have love; we have tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. And while we're 'cotin' as Susie in the Sweet Shop says, we can be building up a small bulwark against a rainy day."

"Look here, young lady," Gary tipped Kay's face up into the moonlight, "I'm the bulwark-builder for this family. No 'we' about it. And there'll be no rainy days in the Fowler family. I consulted the weather man and he says, 'Continued fair and warmer'."

Aviation Student Glides Plane To A Crash Landing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (INS) — Aviation Student Paul E. Meyer, 19, of Kelly Field, knew the answer to a mid-air crash when he collided with another Kelly Field ship piloted by Lt. A. C. Duncan —he glided to safety.

The crash occurred 12 miles from the airdrome and young Meyer found that his propellor was so damaged that to have used it he would have shaken his ship to pieces. He also was unable to let down his landing wheels so he glided the plane to a crash landing.

Kelly Field fliers refer to his feat as "remarkable."

Lieut. Duncan rode his plane from the 17,000 feet altitude where the crash took place to about 11,000 feet and then bailed out and landed unharmed about a mile and a half from the port.

Meyer's father, Paul F. Meyer, was an aviation mechanic in World War 1.

HOROSCOPE

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 14

The auguries based on this day's mutual and lunar aspects bespeak a pleasant, profitable and progressive day, with all things moving toward the goal of happiness and accomplishment. It is possible that the domestic, social or sentimental, as well as the artistic and cultural, affiliations will claim paramount attention, although business of a productive and enduring nature may be under excellent stimulus for success. Affairs out of the customary routine may flourish and find stability, through strange contacts, or probably in collaboration with large or secret organizations or influential friends.

Those whose birthday it is may count upon a year of happy, progressive, prosperous and gratifying events, with some things stirring in unusual grooves or in conjunction with strangers, that may bring surprising denouements. Influential persons, elders and old or secret institutions may contribute to success and enduring good fortune. However, the major interests and activities of the year may revolve around the private life, social, domestic and artistic, with romantic or affectional culminations occupying the spotlight. Altogether a prosperous, happy and worthy year as well as an adventurous one may be expected.

A child born on this day should be blessed with excellent endowments of mind, heart and spirit, equipping it for a prosperous, happy eventful, rich and useful life.

Quiet Ceremony Takes Place In Parish House of St. Peter's Catholic Church; Bridegroom Leaves July 15 For Army.

MISS EVELYN ESTELLA SMITH, daughter of A. F. Smith, 357 Fair street, and the late Mrs. Blanche Smith, became the bride of Nick Linster, 148 Vale avenue, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Linster, on July 10. The quiet ceremony was performed at 7:30 p. m. by Rev. John H. Flynn in the parish house of St. Peter's Catholic church.

For her wedding, Mrs. Linster was attired in a black and white dress with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias. Mrs. John Dalton, matron of honor, wore a blue jersey dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Best man for Mr. Linster was John Zgella.

The home of Mrs. Mabel Dalton, 17 West Second street, was the scene of a reception following the ceremony. The home was attractively decorated with flowers. A large wedding cake with miniature bridal couple centered the long table.

The bride was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is an inspector for the Cleveland division of the army ordnance department at the Ohio Brass company. Mr. Linster has been employed by the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. He will leave for army service on Wednesday.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

But I found that Dicky's prediction was not to be fulfilled, for I slept very little that night. During those troubled catnaps, in my dreams as in my imagination when awake, I followed Katharine in her weary search.

It was really an all-night vigil for me too. When at last I heard her key in the lock I sat up, thrust my feet into slippers, put on a negligee and went into the living room.

I had expected sorrowful disappointment, but I was not prepared for her intense, tragic grief. Katharine lay face downward on the bed, her fingers clenching the pillows.

"Katharine dear," I said. "I am here. What can I do for you?"

She turned to me a ravaged face which had aged ten years since she had left us.

"I have failed Jack, Madge," she said. "I can find no trace of him."

"Where have you been hunting?' 'I asked.

"Where haven't I been hunting?" she countered. "As you know, I had a theory that, while masquerading in his new identity, he had fallen unconscious after he sent that letter to me, and had been taken to the hospital.

"But I have made the rounds of all the hospitals. I have the entree, you know, and I was permitted to look at every patient in the wards. I was sure he'd not be in a private room as he couldn't have ordered one himself. And not one face did I see even remotely resembling his."

Roused By Madge.

"What about the private hospitals?" I asked.

She started and looked at me with alert attention.

"What do you mean?" she queried.

"It's something significant, I know," she went on. "I haven't heard your nuances of voice all these years for nothing. Please don't keep me in suspense. Tell me at once."

I realized that this nervous insistence was most unlike Katharine, and it told me as nothing else could how deeply her suspense about her husband was eating into her soul.

And once more I wondered if abiding love for Jack was at the bottom of her deep emotion, or if, rather, her sense of duty, of loyalty, of responsibility for him was battling subconsciously with a feeling for another man which she would not admit even to herself.

May Have Been Trailed.

"I mean simply this," I said. "We have to face the possibility that some one might have been near him who did not wish him to go to any hospital where you could find him.

"It might have been somebody on his trail who knew or surmised what was in the note Jack sent you, and who had him taken to some small private hospital or nursing home where you never would think of looking."

"It doesn't seem a very tenable theory to me," she said, "for I don't share your belief that the letter is a forgery.

"However," she finished, "anything is worth trying. And as soon as your father can provide me with another guard—I think I've worn Adams out—I'll start out and tour the private hospitals."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The News-Journal's athletic Mr. Robert "Dynamite" Boyd didn't stay very long at Patterson field in Dayton when he enlisted last Friday in the air corps ground crew.

Back home he was on Friday night, but only on four-day furlough, so I hear, and he'll be returning soon to the Dayton field.

Boyd's dad, a pretty fair ball player himself 20 years ago, tells me Bob got a long count on the blood count at Dayton, and they had to send him home to recuperate.

Seems the girl taking his blood test forgot to store the stuff in a refrigerator, and it all dried up.

So they said to Bob: "Go home Bud and save some blood, and we'll be seeing you again shortly."

* * *

Gory story isn't it? Well, that's war. More blood shed.

Three big things happened yesterday to the Mansfield Provident Loan girls' softball team, and the gals just couldn't believe any of them were true, but they were ready and willing to be convinced.

First they played to the largest crowd ever to see them perform on an open Mansfield diamond. Second, that crowd donated the largest collection ever tossed in the girls' caps in Mansfield, $33.60 and a check for a short beer on a Wellington, O., canteen.

And third they treated themselves and their supporters to the unusual thrill of a five run rally in the third inning as they defeated Columbus Wilks Meats at North Lake park.

"I just can't believe this is happening to us," said Pitcher Fran Knapp as the runs came pattering over the platter.

She'd become so accustomed to battling along on a one or two run lead, that that five run splurge seemed just too good to be true.

* * *

And the girls want to thank the crowd for that fine collection, which was twice what they'd ever taken in before.

Stars Ready For Toledo

Meet State Champs In Softball Game.

Mansfield's second big softball attraction of the season will be on display next Sunday afternoon at Liberty park when the Mansfield All Stars meet the state champion Toledo Old Dutch Beers formerly the Page Dairy team.

Arrangements for the game have been completed, Johnny Villella, business manager of the All Stars, announced today. Meanwhile Villell, is trying to strengthen his club which dropped a 2-0 decision to the Ferguson State Auditors state champions in 1941, in the first big game of the season at Liberty park.

However practically the same team which faced the Auditors will be in uniform for the Toledo game, with Schaefer replacing Boyd at shortstop.

The Toledo club is demanding a guarantee of $50 to play here Sunday, and Villella will need a big crowd to reach that mark by the collection method.

Low Scoring Teams Tangle

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The low-scoring Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies clash today in the third of a four-game series and it's a pretty safe bet it'll be a close ball game with few players crossing that old home plate.

That is, it will be, if the Reds and Phils play according to the form they've followed all season. In 12 games so far this year, the two teams have had a combined total of three or less runs in five contests and eight of their 12 meetings have been decided by one run.

Yesterday' doubleheader certainly wasn't any exception. The Reds squeezed out a 2-0 victory on Johnny Vander Meer's three-hit hurling in the opener, and Elmer Riddle beat old Si Johnson 2-1 in the nightcap.

Vander Meer chalked up his ninth victory and boosted his strikeouts to 89 by whiffing 13.

Ray Starr, who counts among his 12 conquests every league foe, was slated to try today for his fourth triumph over the Phils whose probable was Rube Melton.

French Proves Bargain

Brooklyn Southpaw Leads Major Loops.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(AP Sports Writer).

LEFTY LARRY FRENCH, leading pitcher of the Major leagues and only undefeated hurler among all the regular starters, is becoming one of the biggest bargains since the Indians sold Island of Manhattan.

The Brooklyn Dodgers picked up French for the waiver price of $7,500 late last season and the 33-year-old lefthander hasn't been beaten since.

He won his tenth game of the year yesterday, holding the Pittsburgh Pirates to three hits in pitching the Dodgers to a 2-1 decision in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Dodgers lost the second game 4-6 and watched their National league lead shrink to eight lengths, but French reached the half-way mark in a season that promises to be his best in the Majors. His best previous year was 1936, when he won 18 and lost nine for the Chicago Cubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals drew one game closer to the leaders by whipping the Bostonw Braves, 5-1 and 9-3, the first on a two-hit pitching job by Harry Gumbert. Walker Cooper led the Cardinal assault in both games, hitting a home run, three doubles and a single in seven times at bat.

In the American league, the first place New York Yankees also divided a double bill but boosted their lead to four and a half games with the help of the St. Louis Browns. While the Yankees were losing to the Detroit Tigers, 6-4, and winning 3-1 in 13 innings, the Browns pinned a double defeat on the second place Boston Red Sox, 1-0 and 10-6.

Johnny Vander Meer matched the pitching exploits of French and Gumbert by tossing a three-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the Cincinnati Reds captured both ends of a bargain bill. Vandy struck out 13 men in winning, 2-0 Elmer Riddle pitched six-hit ball and the Reds won then ightcap, 2-1.

At Chicago, Lon Warneke made his first appearance since returning to the Cubs and was whacked soundly by the New York Giants, who captured the opener, 6-2 The Cubs bounced back to square accounts, 8-3.

The Cleveland Indians took both ends of their twin bill from the Washington Senators, winning the first, 9-7, with a two-run rally in the tenth inning and the second, 5-0, on Jim Bagby's eight-hit pitching.

The day's best pitching performance in the American league was turned in by Jake Wade, who held the Philadelphia Athletics to three hits and contributed three blows himself as the Chicago White Sox took the second game, 11-1. Roger Wolff pitched five-hit ball in winning the first game for the A's, 3-2.

Reggie Myles Defends Title

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— Reggie Myles of Cleveland had a good chance to retain his Poland open golf crown today although he was one stroke behind the leader in the warm-up tourney.

Lloyd Gullickson of the Congress Lake club at Hartville set the pace in yesterday's pro-amateur match by shooting a 34-33—67 over the Poland Country club's nine hole, par 36 course. He is expected to lead nearly 90 amateurs and professionals in an effort to wrest the crown from Myles.

* * *

Myles had a 35-33—68 but it was without the benefit of his usually-inspired putts. A little sharp shooting on the greens might give the Clevelander his third title — and $500—in the fifth edition of the 36-hole fixture.

Other leading professional scores included Herman Keiser, Akron, 36-35—71, Al Alcroft, Youngstown, 38-33—71, Roy Reighart, Alliance, 37-37—74; Ted Huge, Cleveland, 38-36—74; Vally Dirodis, Akron, 37-37—71, Frank Long, Salem, 39-35—74.

Yesterday's pro-amateur ended in a triple tie with three 67s. Partners were Myles and Jim Piloly, Gullickson and Dr. W. A. Welsh, and Wynn Tredway and Andy Swedko.

Canton Terriers Sweep Twin Bill

ZANESVILLE—(AP)—The Canton Terriers, who haven't done so well this Mid-Atlantic season, swept a double feature with the Zanesville Cubs yesterday and climbed within one percentage point of the fourth-place Springfield Cardinals.

* * *

The pups took the afternoon curtain raiser 2 to 1 behind the two-hit pitching of Chuck Dykes, and copped the night finale 8 to 6.

* * *

Charleston split at Dayton, winning the first game 5 to 3, and dropping the second 7 to 4. Springfield and Erie divided also, the Sailors taking the first 6 to 4, and the Cardinals the second 2 to 0.

Conservation Hits Peak In Swim Suits

This year there can be no mistaking the difference in meaning of the words "conservation" and "conservative" as applied to the various town and city fathers who take upon themselves the duties of censors of beach apparel. Keeping in mind the fact that materials should be conserved, the "censors" seem to have taken off all the restrictions of swimsuits that previously were applied. In many places where they once were banned, suits with bare mid-riffs, all-white suits and one-piece affairs have appeared with the only reaction being an "oh-oh" from the male populace.

Tribe Boosts Loop Average

Indians Have Chance To Get In Flag Race.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Once again, the Cleveland Indians have a chance to get back in the race for the American league pennant.

The Indians won a double header from Washington Sunday and gained on both the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox The Redskins are six games behind the leading Yanks and a game and a half behind the Sox.

Cleveland will have the opportunity to cut those margins still further after they complete the series here. They will move on to New York and Boston to finish the eastern trip.

Al Milnar will pitch against the Senators tonight, opposed by Washington's Walter Masterson.

The Indians were forced to go 10 innings to beat the tail-end Senators, 9-7, in the first game of yesterday's twin contest, but won the second game 5-0 on Jim Bagby's steady pitching.

In the opener, Pitcher Al Smith of the Indians, who hadn't started in 12 days, couldn't hold an early lead and gave way to Steve Gromek. Washington went into the ninth with a 7-6 lead but Les Fleming tripled and scored on Manager Lou Boudreau's long fly, making it 7-all.

The Indians got to Pitcher Alex Carrasquel in the 10th. Oris Hockett walked and went to third on Ken Keltner's single. Hockett was out trying to score just before Jeff Heath tripled and Fleming doubled to put over the winning tallies.

Cleveland beat Buck Newsom in the nightcap on six hits, while Bagby was marking up his 10th triumph. Home runs by Heath and Fleming, the latter with Heath on base, helped the Indian cause.

Win Before Big Crowd At North Lake Park.

Mansfield Provident Loan girls split even over the week-end in a pair of games with the Columbus Wilks Meat softball club, dropping a 2-4 decision Saturday night at Delaware, and chalking up a 7 to 2 win yesterday at North Lake park.

The Saturday night game was a benefit affair for three members of the Columbus team injured in a recent game at Ashland.

Sunday's game at North Lake saw the Providents going on a hitting bee in the third inning to pile up five runs. Singles by Schaefer, Herrick, Schuster, Jocha and Whiteman, and a double by Holda were pounded out during the merry-go-round.

Biggest crowd ever to see the Providents play on an open diamond in Mansfield turned out for the Sunday game.

Pat Pitches No-Hit Game

Travelers Score 19-0 Victory at Bucyrus.

The engineers held no fears for Mansfield Travelers yesterday as the Mansfield baseball club invaded Bucyrus for a 19 to 0 victory over the 753rd Engineers.

Pat Patterson hurled a no-hit, no-run game against the army team, and only two of the engineers reached first base, on errors by Hamman and Kenny Lockhart.

Lockhart made up for his misplay by leading the Mansfield attack with two home runs and two singles in six trips to the dish, and driving in six runs.

Friday evening the Travelers are scheduled at the Fairground where they will meet the Galion Jaycees of the Ohio State semi-pro league.

Red Birds Split With Indians

(By Associated Press)

The Kansas City Blues headed east today gratified that a two-weeks' home stand in which they played only .538 ball had cost them just one game of their first-place margin in the American association.

The Blues split a double-header with Minneapolis yesterday, winning the first, 6 to 1, and losing the second, 8 to 3.

In two other Association parks double-headers also were divided. But at Toledo the Mud Hens won a twin bill from Louisville, 10 to 6 and 7 to 3, running their victory string to six games.

Columbus took the opener from Indianapolis, 3 to 2, but dropped the second, 4 to 0, as the Tribe ended a six-game losing streak. The Red Birds, playing on their home field since June 18, won 21 out of 29 games over that period to climb from sixth to second place.

Forty-nine hits were recorded in 16 innings of play at Milwaukee as St. Paul won the first game, 14 to 2, and the Brewers the second, 12 to 5. The Saints collected 22 hits in their victory and Milwaukee made 15 in taking the nightcap.

Consider Rescheduling Of Ohio Public Links Tourneys

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—With two of Ohio's talent-laden golf championships off to a rousing start today—the state amateur at the Cincinnati Maketewah club and the women's Buckeye title race at Columbus Country club — a move was under way to put the 13th annual public links fixture back on the calendar.

Originally scheduled for Aug. 8-9 at the Heatherdowns club in Toledo, the "pay-as-you-play" 72-hole medal play classic—as well as the 36-hole race for women—was cancelled a couple of weeks ago when a survey showed a majority of the prospective entrants would be unable to compete.

Today, however, Secretary Ray Pennell of Columbus said Toledo district officials desired to keep the classic on the slate, suggesting Aug. 15-16 as the dates.

Pennell has launched another survey to determine if a fair representation might be obtained from the larger districts of Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and from the Ohio river sector near Steubenville.

"If we can get a fair number of entrants from outside Toledo," the secretary said, "there's a chance we'll hold the tournament. We may run the full 72 holes over two days, or we may cut the tourney to a single day, with 36 holes."

Dick Rhyan of Columbus won the men's public links title a year ago, whole Mrs. P. J. (Thelma) Linster of Mansfield won the women's crown for the second straight year. Mrs. Linster is among entrants seeking the Ohio women's championship in the tourney starting today at Columbus Country club, in which Miss Neoma Copic of Toledo, winner of the public links laurels in 1939, is defending queen.

At Cincinnati, in the state amateur, the defending champ is another Toledoan—youthful Frankie Stranahan. The amateur winds up next Saturday, and the women's event ends Friday, each with a 36-hole match play round.

HUNT WINS TITLE

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Barney Hunt of Columbus, 1940 state public king, today wore another crown on his already heavy-laden titular dome by virtue of his annexing the central district amateur golf title. Hunt defeated Nash Kelley of Columbus, 4 and 3, in the 36-hole finals.

SPOKE IMPROVES

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Tris Speaker was "somewhat improved" at Lakeside hospital today although attendants said he is still on the danger list. Last night marked a week that the Gray Eagle had been taken to the hospital suffering from a severe cold and intestinal complications.

ASHLAND CIVIC DEFENSE UNITS PARADE SUNDAY

20,000 Line Streets to See Marchers, Equipment; Legion Holds Sessions.

ASHLAND—The great magnitude of equipment and the large number of personnel that is necessary to Civilian Defense was brought home to the thousands of persons who witnessed Ashland's Victory parade Sunday afternoon.

With more than 2,000 persons participating in the parade and a crowd of probably 20,000 watching, Ashland has not had a larger parade since following the signing of the armistice of World war I.

The parade featuring Civilian Defense units and held in connection with the Fifth District American Legion "Little Convention," was viewed by throngs all along Main street and the entire line of march to Brookside park where a Civilian Defense program was held.

Eight bands participated in the parade, Ashland high school, Elyria drum corps, Sandusky Sons of Legion, Salvation Army, Plumbrook band, Loudonville high school, Mansfield drum corps and Galion drum corps.

Civilian Defense officials, auxiliary policemen, firemen, fire wardens, messenger corps, emergency medical corps, nurses and nurses' aids, and state highway department units, utility company repair squads, state patrol units—all of them vital to Civilian Defense—were in the parade. Then there were Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, patriotic organizations and auxiliaries, Business and Professional Women's club, Red Cross, Navy Mothers clubs and many others who are assisting with the program of Civilian Defense.

There was an emergency hospital transformed from a state highway house car, a crash truck, a disaster truck, an emergency lightning truck, an emergency pumping truck, an emergency welding truck, a carry-all truck, ambulances, and emergency ambulances converted from station wagons, sheriff and police cars and emergency police cars. Adding color to the parade were a number of floats including Red Cross, Farm Bureau, Consumers' group, Lions club, American Legion, and commercial groups. Members of the Big Game Hunters carried their shotguns on their shoulders as they marched in the parade and members of the Ashland Paint and Plain Saddle club as well as two horse-drawn dairy delivery trucks were symbolic of the part the horse is again taking in transportation.

A humorous note was struck in Hitler's effigy in a grave drawn by the Heyl hearse, in an automobile whose wheels and locomotion were four walking men and a rider on an old high-wheeled bicycle.

The park program featured an address by Courtney Burton, chief of Ohio civilian defense. Presiding at the program was Commander Earl E. Leed of Harry Higgins Post No. 88 of Ashland, Rev. H. E. Andrews, chaplain of the local post, gave the invocation after which Mayor Glenn B. Haller gave the address of welcome. The response was given by Carl L. Smith, retiring commander of the Fifth District. In addition to Burton, Dr. Lee, past department commander of the Hawaiian American Legion who is now in Ohio and who will return to Hawaii, spoke in the absence of Martin V. Coffey, vice commander of the Ohio American Legion.

Music at the park program was furnished by the Trojan Plumbrook band. An interesting demonstration was given by the champion first aid team of the state highway patrol at Massillon. The benediction was given by the district chaplain, Rev. W. W. Waterhouse.

Harry Eaton, newly elected Fifth District Legion commander, was chairman of the convention and parade committee. Walter Lasley was marshal of the day.

Hey, Buddy, You Can't Swap For General's Stars

A BRITISH ARMY BASE, Egypt—(U.P.)—An Australian soldier, watching over a group of prisoners, was fascinated by the row of dust-caked ribbon decorations worn by an Italian colonel. Finally he walked over, inspected them closely and said:

"Listen, pal, you're not going to need those pretties, so how about trading them for a couple of cigarets?"

The colonel got the idea and immediately made the deal. Then the Aussie spotted an officer with a silver star gleaming on his shoulder and he offered to make a similar deal for it.

"Sorry," replied the officer in English, "but I still have use for it. You see, I'm on your side."

The Aussie was astonished to learn that the officer was an American general, an observer here, who was inspecting the prisoners.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRAPPING THE UNWARY

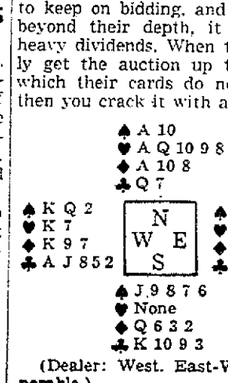
NO WEAPON is more lethal than a "trap pass" when you are opposed to optimistic bidders. It requires will power sometimes to refrain from bidding a strong hand, but if you feel sure that doing so will cause your opponents to keep on bidding, and get away beyond their depth, it may pay heavy dividends. When they finally get the auction up to heights which their cards do not justify, then you crack it with a double.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♣ | Pass | 1 NT | Pass |
| 2 ♣ | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| Pass | Dbl | Pass | Pass |
| 2 NT | Dbl | | |

It calls upon anybody's self-control to pass that North hand, even if he knows the other pair as a bunch of persistent bidders. It also requires confidence in one's own partner, to be sure he will keep it open if East passes.

When West rebid at 2-Clubs, North passed again because he felt sure his partner would double or bid if East passed this time. His faith was rewarded when East himself kept it open with that call of 2-Hearts, which sounded like music to North's ears. He doubled this because he was willing to play against anything into which the opponents might flee. And of course he had no problem about doubling 2-No Trumps.

The spade 7 was led to the Q and A, and the ten covered by the J was allowed to win, the 9 then knocking out the K. Sorely beset, East called the club 8, North playing low and South winning with the 9, to take two more spades, then lead the diamond 2 to the A. The club Q came back to the A, the diamond K won, then the club J lost to the K, and the 10 also scored. Declarer got the last two tricks, but had lost eight and was down three for a loss of 800 points, which could not have been scored except for North's trap passing.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable).

What is the principle of leading which applies vitally to this deal if East bids both spades and hearts, and South winds up in 3-No-Trumps?

Japanese Beetles Interfere With Gunnery Practice

FOSTER FIELD, Victoria, Tex. —(NNS)—When the United States imported Japanese beetles years ago to fight certain agricultural pests, it was not imagined that they ever would interfere with gunnery practice of the army's air forces.

Student pursuit pilots, reporting back from a secret gunnery range on the Gulf of Mexico have averred that the barrel-jackets on their machine guns were strangely clogging.

A swift inspection revealed a swarm of Japanese beetles had somehow entered the jackets.

"We repulsed the invasion," Staff Sgt. Lloyd Forrester, reported.

STOCK LEADERS DROP TO LOWER MARKET LEVELS

Report Shows Government War Expenditures Hit New High Mark In June.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Leading stocks shifted to slightly lower levels in today's market proceedings.

Losers of fractions included Chrysler, Woolworth, U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Montgomery Ward and General Electric.

Market trend students scanne dthe W. P. B. summary which disclosed the government's war expenditures hit a new record high in June with an aggregate of $4,123,000,000. This was mainly responsible for the jump of the Federal Reserve board's index of industrial production to 180.

Noted also was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that current shipments of scrap were just about equal to mill demand, with little material being stocked for future use. This being the season when scrap piles normally are built up, it was added, lack of reserves for winter was a threatening factor.

ARMY BUTTER CAN TAKE IT

New Product Guaranteed To Remain Solid at 114 Degrees.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—A new kind of butter, guaranteed to remain solid in temperature up to 114 degrees Fahrenheit, is the latest contribution in army culinary experimentation.

It is called "Carter's spread," named in jest by Lieut. Col. Robert Carter of the quartermaster general's office, and is the result of six months' laboratory work.

This new butter, able to be shipped without refrigeration, has been perfected by Major J. H. White and Col. Rohland A. Isker of the army laboratory's meat and dairy section.

According to White, the experiments have reached the stage where the army has begun purchasing "Carter's spread" in large quantities. He said:

"This butter keeps almost indefinitely without refrigeration, judging from our tests to date. It is good quality dairy butter stabilized through the addition of a small amount of hardened fat. We have kept some of it for three months at 110 degrees of heat and it is still all right and tastes good."

White said that it is just as nutritious as ordinary butter and, except for the fact that it has to be chewed slightly when eaten, since ordinary body temperatures won't melt it, can't be distinguished from the original.

The advantages of the new butter were shown when an experimental batch of it was shipped at ordinary temperatures to the Philippines, back through the Panama Canal, thence to New York, from New York to Chicago, and arrived as good as when it left.

Father And Four Sons Are In U. S. Armed Services

CHICAGO—(INS)—A father and his four sons in the armed forces of the United States is the proud record of a Winnetka family.

John R. Reilly who heads the "fighting Reillys" was a field artillery captain in the first World war, and has rejoined the colors as an ordnance major asigned to a western post. His brother is Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, who commanded the famous artillery regiment, known as "Reilly's Bucks" in the Rainbow Division during 1917 and 1918. Major Reilly, then a subaltern, was influential in bringing about the inclusion of Illinois troops under his brother in the Rainbow Division.

Lieut. James Dunham Reilly, one of Major Reilly's sons, saw service in the Japanese onslought at Pearl Harbor. Later he participated in the American fleet's raids on the Marshall Islands.

The other Fighting Reillys: Henry J. has enlisted in the army; John R. jr., is a second lieutenant of field artillery at Fort Sill, Okla., and Robert S., a naval reservist, is completing a course at Northwestern University, preparatory to entering a course which leads to an ensign's commission.

KNIESNER GETS DENTAL AWARD

Clevelander's Research In Dentistry Earns Him National Honor.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Dr. Albert H. Kneisner's investigations of the nutritional requirements of the bacteria most commonly associated with teeth decay have earned him the Samuel M. Gordon national award for dental research.

Dr. Kneisner, who has been engaged in dental investigations since his graduation from the Western Reserve University Dental School in 1940, has demonstrated that pantothenic acid, which is one of the B vitamins, and dextrose are essential to the existence of oral Lactobacilli, the bacteria most persistently found in association with dental caries, or decay.

It was said that the research is still in its fundamental stage, but it was held conceivable that the research might some day yield knowledge of how the microscopic offenders could be "starved to death" in the human mouth.

The problem of the nutritional requirements of the oral Lactobacilli, it was pointed out, is related to the general enigma of why such bacteria grow in some human mouths and not in others.

The bacteria manufacture a chemical agent which enables fermentable sugar on the teeth to produce an acid, and the acid in turn is the immediate cause of tooth decay.

"We have shown that these bacteria can't grow without two nutritional substances," Dr. Kneisner commented, "we plan now to begin systematic investigation of all their nutritional requirements."
